Stanford Ranch project in West Sac slips away

By Steve Marschke

Stanford Ranch, a prominent Rocklin-based residential developer, has apparently written off its plans to develop a sizable chunk of southern West Sacramento.

The company lost 91 acres of its holdings in Southport to foreclosure Nov. 29, and has failed to purchase additional properties under terms of options it had purchased.

The foreclosed property is located west of Jefferson Blvd. and close to the main drainage canal in the city's "Southport" region.

It had been purchased from Mary E. Palamidessi and others, with public documents showing a $3 million unpaid debt at the time of the foreclosure. Palamidessi and her partners bought the property back at foreclosure for $1.5 million.

She declined to state the company's original purchase price.

Bruce Tripp, a former Stanford Ranch official, was listed as a principal in the Sacramento River Development Co., which according to Palamidessi is a subsidiary of Stanford Ranch and which was listed as the property's buyer. Tripp now reportedly works out of state. Stanford Ranch president Larry Kelly and other Stanford Ranch spokespeople have not returned several requests for comment.

Palamidessi reported that the company had "purchased outright nine acres," financing the purchase of the remaining 91, and buying options on other Southport acreage.

The company then let its plans for development die after facing infrastructure delays -- including the lack of a second Southport bridge to allow southern development.

Such a bridge was expected to be built by private money soon after developers won the right to build an industrial park in Southport in 1990. Although federal money has been promised to pay part of the construction costs, financing has remained elusive and the bridge has continued to slip behind schedule.

A group of private developers is expected to bring a financing proposal to the city for consideration next month, but details have not been disclosed.

Counting all our feathered neighbors

The annual Christmas Audubon Society bird count was conducted Saturday.

A group of skilled bird watchers gathered at Margaret Crawford's West Sacramento home at about 7:30 a.m., as they have one morning each of the past several years.

The group mapped out the designated areas each two or three person team would survey, and after a cup of coffee set out on their way.

The team assigned to the West Sacramento area covered from Highway 80 on the north to the Sacramento River on the east, to the Yolo Bypass on the west and nearly to city limits on the south.

Even though the weather has been mild, the migration of birds from nesting areas in the far north were found in their normal abundance. In the West Sacramento area, 112 different species were seen and recorded. For some reason, fewer of the long-legged wading birds (egrets and herons) were seen.

On the other hand, tundra swans, white fronted geese and snow geese were abundant and and estimated 20,000 northern pintail ducks were seen in the protected area of the bypass.

YO and LO RAYNE turn skyward to count the tiny, ruby crowned kinglets on Lakewood St.

Once more around town carrying Santa Claus

By Steve Marschke

The West Sacramento Fire Department faces one more evening of playing limo driver for Santa Claus, with a tour of parts of West Sacramento scheduled for tonight (Dec. 20).

Firefighters and a fire department engine will carry Santa on his tour to pass out candy to kids and to collect non-perishable food for charity, said firefighter Steve Zender.

"We get such a charge out of it," he commented. "We see the kids jumping up and down when the see Santa, and overall it's really positive."

Beginning shortly after 6 p.m., Santa will depart from a local fire station for a tour of the Meadowdale neighborhood (including Palomar and Morning Glory), then to the Evergreen Ave. neighborhood, then to Arlington Oaks, from there to Linden Acres (including a stop on Alder), and from there to French Ave. and its neighborhood.

There have been problems faced by Santa and entourage in the Broderick neighborhood, said Zender. Youths have thrown eggs at the fire engine and some have stolen candy being handed out by the children of firefighters.

"This year wasn't as bad as the last two years," he said. "We do get some kids who give us a problem."

Harbor Blvd. misses goal of opening to two-way traffic

Weather has hindered completion of the Harbor Blvd. widening project north of West Capitol Ave., and the road isn't expected to be open for through-traffic before Christmas as planned.

"We are in a position now where the weather's delaying us," said Steve Patek, director of the West Sacramento Community Development Dept. "We need some dry weather to allow us to do some paving and retaining wall work."

Patek said that, weather permitting, the road will be open to two-way traffic "with some restrictions" within two to three weeks.

Council okays deal with Money Store

Redevelopment director predicts smooth path to financing construction

By Steve Marschke

The West Sacramento City Council formally approved a development agreement with Raley's Landing and the Money Store Dec. 13 to pave the way for a several hundred thousand square foot office headquarters for the Money Store on West Sacramento's riverfront north of the Tower Bridge.

The agreement, in part, provides for the refund of taxes paid from the development to the city redevelopment agency, back to the development to help pay for infrastructure costs (such as improvements to road and sewer systems).

The Money Store itself has not formally approved the agreement. But Val Toppenberg, director of the city redevelopment agency, expects the company's board of directors to vote on it in January.

"They have reviewed all the documents so far and approved them," he said.

Toppenberg speculated that the company won't have much trouble finding financing for the construction, since it will be a tenant on the site after it is built. Money that is now being spent by the company for rent will simply be paid into a mortgage instead, he commented.

$1 million grant may help Merkley project

By Steve Marschke

Over five years after it was acquired by the West Sacramento Redevelopment Agency, the former Vacation Inn on Merkley Ave. (now the Margaret McDowall Manor) has turned into perhaps the city's biggest money pit.

But a new $1 million federal grant administered through the state Department of Housing and Community Development may help show the way to the light at the end of the tunnel, local officials hope.

The property was purchased for $4.2 million in 1991 when it was a magnet for blight. Police statistics showed that about seven percent of the city's police calls originated from the motel, a center for drug activity and other problems. Plans were to remove this trouble spot, and help meet goals for affordable housing, by converting the hotel to a housing complex for senior citizens.

> 'It now appears that new units could be produced at no greater cost than renovation.'
> Val Toppenberg
> Director of Redevelopment

Then they learned asbestos and other problems in the building would hinder conversion.

"It now appears that new units could be produced at no greater cost than renovation," said Toppenberg. It now appears likely that if the senior housing units are to be created, they will be built from scratch after the site is razed.

Joanne Auerbach, a housing program manager for the redevelopment agency, said the agency will continue to pursue sources of grant money to complete the project.

"Our goal is a minimum of 80 units," she said.

In the meantime, a handful of people leftover from the Vacation Inn continue to live on the property, which is now managed by public funds from the agency.

"The current residents are all individuals who were there when we purchased the Vacation Inn," said Auerbach. "The grants are on the condition that we relocate the existing households."

With the promise to relocate the current tenants, city officials believe they have reached a truce with Legal Services of Northern California, which has litigated against the city in the past while championing the rights of these tenants.

Although redevelopment agency officials do not have a precise estimate of the cost to construct a new senior center, a previous grant application called for $5.2 million to construct 66 units, and current hopes call for 80 or more units.

Original projections called for a $7 million total project cost, including the purchase price of $4.2 million.

IRS seeks former locals to give refunds

From the Internal Revenue Service

The Internal Revenue Service is seeking 854 Northern Californians who have refund checks coming. The checks were sent out to the last known address but were returned to the IRS by the United State Postal Service because they were "undeliverable." The amounts of the refunds range from $41 to $15,271. The average check is for $715.

Each year, the postal service sends thousands of undeliverable refund checks back to the IRS. Why are they sent back? There are just as many reasons as there are checks according to IRS spokesman, John Dearing. "People move or change their address without notifying the IRS. They may get married and change their name as well as their address. Street names are misspelled or illegible. Address numbers are inverted. Sometimes we find the address was input into the system incorrectly," Dearing said.

People can avoid the delay of a refund by sending the IRS

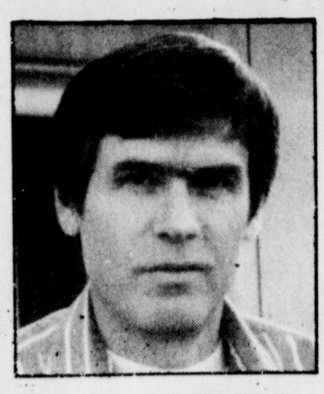
It's good to know you're astrologically compatible

My Back Pages



By Daryl Fisher

"Hey, Mary," I called out to my wife, "what's your sign?"

"I'm busy," she yelled back from our youngest son's bedroom, "what did you say?"

"I said I need to know your astrological sign," I cried out again.

A minute or so later, with her arms full of dirty socks, shirts and pants, she emerged from our son's room, strolled over to where I was sitting and said, "Did I hear you right? You want to know what sign I am?"

"That's right."

"But why?"

"Come on, just tell me what your sign is, okay?"

"Not until you tell me why."

"Well," I said, "if you have to know, I'm trying to find out if we're astrologically compatible or not."

"You're kidding?"

"No, I'm not."

"And just how do you plan on doing that?"

"By looking up our signs in this here book," I said, holding up Linda Goodman's best seller, Love Signs.

"Now where in the world did you get that?" she asked, slowly shaking her head.

"One of your daughter's friends gave it to her to read. I'm just borrowing it for a few minutes."

"But you don't really believe in that stuff, do you?"

"I sure know a lot of people who do," I said.

"But just the fact that you and your twin sister are so totally different -- even though you were born only a few minutes apart -- shouldn't that tell you all you need to know about astrology?"

When I finally talked my wife into admitting she was a Libra, I quickly turned to a little section of the book entitled 'The Leo-Libra Relationship' and began to read; "Now, it says here, and I quote, that 'a Leo and Libra relationship can achieve almost anything, from a successful love affair or marriage to a sound friendship or business deal. Their elements are Air and Fire, and when the former fans the latter into a brighter torch, both benefit'."

"Is that so?"

"It even says that Leos and Libras make great Soul Mates because we are good at consistently practicing tolerance and forgiveness, and that the magic we can create is all-powerful and indestructible. The bond can be weakened, but never separated permanently'."

"Well," said my wife with a smile, "it sounds like everything is okay."

"But listen to this," I said, "it also says that Libras can be argumentative, manipulative, and control freaks."

"It does, does it?"

"You do like to argue, you know."

"And what does it say about Leos?"

"I haven't got to that part yet."

"Here," she said, making a move towards the book, "let me help you find it."

"That's okay," I said, securing the book, "I can locate it."

"But I'd be glad to help."

"Okay, okay, here it is," I said, looking down at a page called the `Checklist of Leo Traits'.

"So, what's it say?"

"Well," I said, trying to buy myself a few seconds to do a little quick editing, "it says here that Leos, among other things, are regal, warm, creative, childlike, trusting, magnanimous, romantic, and really great lovers."

"Give me that book," said my wife, grabbing it out of my hand.

"Okay," I said after trying unsuccessfully to get the book back, "so maybe I made up the one about being a great lover."

"And it would appear that you left out a few other things, too."

"No I didn't," I lied, still trying to get the book back.

"Let's see," said my wife, "it also says here that Leos are gossipy, self-promoting, demanding, big spenders, authoritative, opinionated, brash, proud, complacent, self-indulgent, lax, vain, self-conscious, insensitive and in need of a fan club. Now, does that sound like anyone we know?"

"But don't you think it's nice to know we're astrologically compatible," I said, attempting to change the subject.

"I already knew we were compatible, Daryl. We have four kids."

Ask 49ers coach how he likes his touchdowns, and he'll probably say, "with Rice."

On Monday night, Jerry Rice went wild, setting a 49ers record for single game receiving yardage. Steve Young hit Rice with a career high 289 yards and three touchdowns on 14 catches! Young threw for 425 yards and three TDs and ran for one.

The 49ers won their sixth straight game and assured the 49ers (11-4) of a first-round bye and a second round game at 3Com Park on Jan. 6.

If they win their final game next Sunday in Atlanta, the home field advantage throughout the NFC playoffs belongs to the Niners. With the 49ers' win, the Detroit Lions join the Cowboys, Packers and Eagles in the NFC playoffs with one spot left to either the Falcons, Vikings, Bears or Rams.

The Raiders, on the other hand, are falling apart like a cheap suit from K-Mart! The Raiders, who were 8-2, have lost five games in a row, including a 44-10 loss last Sunday in Seattle.

The Seahawks remain alive for the AFC wild card hunt. The Raiders (8-7) now face a must-win game next Sunday at 1 p.m. in Oakland against arch-rival Denver.

The Bills, Steelers and Kansas City Chiefs have clinched their divisions and are battling for home field advantage. The Colts, Dolphins, Chargers, Seahawks, Broncos and Raiders are all fighting for the final two wild card spots in the AFC.

The first-place Kings (15-7) continue with their best start in the franchise's history since the 1965-66 Cincinatti Royals did the same. The Kings struggled to a 92-85 victory over the expansion Vancouver Grizzlies on Monday, but surprised the defending NBA champion Rockets last Friday in Houston.

The Kings were trailing the Rockets by 16 points when Mitch Richmond blasted the Rockets for 25 points in the third quarter and finished with 47 points in the Kings' upset victory!

The Rockets came to town last week and beat up the Kings pretty bad, winning by 40 points!!

Enjoy your holiday and Merry Christmas to all!!! See ya next week!!

School for teen mothers needs help

The West Side Community School in West Sacramento is seeking donations of baby furniture and toys for its newly established Child Care Co-Op. Anita Westenbarger, a teacher organized the Co-Op in answer to the growing needs of West Sacramento teen mothers. A recent poll indicates that 65-78 percent of the West Sacramento high school drop-out rate is due to teen pregnancy, and that West Sacramento has the largest number of pregnant teens in Yolo County.

Westenberger, working with H.A.W.K. Americorp members in a service learning program and West Side Community School students, operates the Co-Op during school hours in an effort to assist teen mothers in completing their education. The center currently has six infants ranging in ages up to 18 months. The participation of the teen mothers is key to the success of the program. In addition to cooperative child care, participants in the Co-Op program receive instruction in child care and development and first aid.

The Co-Op operates on a limited budget and seeks donational support from the West Sacramento community. New or used, child safe, high-chairs, cribs, playpens, infant and toddler clothes, books and toys would be a great help in making the center a success.

Community members who are interested in making donations can contact Anita Westenberger at the West Side Community School, 375-0235.

OPINION

News-Ledger Editorial:

A different kind of holiday gift

The holiday season is at our doorstep.

In the crowded malls (at least across the river in Sacramento), and the consumer-mania, thoughts have turn to the spirit of giving, or at least scratching names of a gift list in a mood of panicked frenzy. Even those not celebrating Christmas often get a vicarious taste of the sentiment of giving.

Like our countrymen, we in West Sacramento become centered around family and close friends. The goodwill doesn't always carry over to the rest of society; we are as likely to help a stranger in need as we are to swear at the many strangers who make up the crowds and the traffic jams.

This year, in addition to getting gifts for friends, how about if we all agree to make a gift to our community?

Let's admit it. West Sacramento is a fractured and fragmented place. Too many simply don't care about what's going on around town, or don't feel they can change it. Those that do care usually disagree with each other.

For Christmas (and for a New Year's resolution), what do you think would happen if we all decided to find one piece of our town and improve it?

By volunteering to help some seniors. . . to create an opportunity for some youth. . . by working to change a law to make it work better. . . by taking an ugly place and making it better. . .who knows what the limits are?

Because, no matter how much we gripe about local government, things are only the way they are, for better or for worse, because that's the way we accept them.

So, for a holiday present, let's give ourselves a little change.

Guest opinion:

New times, new way of solving problems: 'community building'

By Tom Stallard
Yolo County Supervisor
Third District

"A grateful heart a garden is, where there is always room, for every lovely God-like grace to come to perfect bloom." This somewhat romantic line from a favorite hymn comes to mind when I think about poverty. We generally think of poverty as material want. But do we think of poverty as spiritual vacuum?

Looking throughout Yolo County, there are many generous people who make special things happen for others. Some of these people are of modest means themselves, but their hearts are full indeed. They cook at the Wayfarer Center in Woodland, helping to feed hungry people. They do physical work to help upgrade Harper House in West Sacramento where battered spouses seek a retreat. And they volunteer at the Communicare Clinic in Davis where the indigent come for physical care, to name just a few examples.

When I think about "community building," I think about these good people and the activities they make possible. As I said, there are many such people in Yolo County, and we are all the richer for their efforts. But I want to talk about others among us who do not know the joy of service to others. Sadly, they are many, too.

Cultivating that "grateful heart" that the hymn speaks of often means suspending one's own agenda long enough to perceive the needs of others. Maybe it's the needs of school children for better facilities that you can help make possible. Or maybe there is a "special needs" group whose burden you can help lift through concerted effort on your part, be it fundraising, donating, or the application of elbow grease.

We are coming full circle in government, and I think it's a good thing. I disagreed with most of what former Governor Jerry Brown had to say, but his reference to the "era of limits" was apt. People didn't always look to government to solve every problem. They used to come together to meet needs that they as individuals could not sustain.

Today, this is happening again as the realization grows that government doesn't have the funding or even necessarily the public support to try to meet all needs. And honestly, it is questionable how well government, for all its bureaucratic aspects, meets needs.

In Yolo County, partnering is the new style of getting things done. We rely on non-profit partners such as those previously mentioned for accomplishing many human service objectives. And we know that when a private, non-profit entity is involved, the money will be spent efficiently and with great care.

So if you have never put yourself personally on the line to make something happen for others, why not try it out this holiday season. Last December, my wife and I rang the bell for the Salvation Army. It was bitter cold and a bit tedious, but we witnessed a lot of heartwarming generosity from children and adults. We can never pass a red kettle again without putting something in.

If you are feeling a little stressed by the holidays and the many attendant but sometimes vacant demands, help us with community building for a better Yolo County -- get involved somewhere or many places. A call to my office, 666-8621, could be a first step for a list of suggestions. And I would love to hear from you. Happy and rewarding holidays.

Aaaah! The Sound of Silence

Residents of Valhalla Mobile Home Park joined local, State, and Federal representatives along with project participants last Wednesday to celebrate the completion of the Valhalla Sound Wall. This project is part of the larger Interstate 80/Enterprise Interchange project that has yet to be scheduled due to lack of sufficient funding. The City Council intervened earlier this year by advancing the funds to Caltrans necessary to proceed with the soundwall. Valhalla residents can now enjoy some peace and quiet!

Link Crew: new program links freshmen with juniors and seniors for success at RC

Carolina Avina
Staff Writer

Link Crew is a nation-wide program that "links" the newly arrived freshmen with the upper classmen at RC throughout the whole year. Its goal is to create a more comfortable atmosphere in which freshmen can succeed as well as to build up leadership skills in upper classmen.

Ms. Tyler, who organizes Link Crew activities along with Ms. Johnson, says, "Getting the upper classmen concerned with the freshmen, and the freshmen aware of how much the upper classmen care will motivate the freshmen to be active in our school, and to develop study skills as well as a positive view of River City."

This summer 56 juniors and seniors took time from their summer vacation for an intensive day of training to become Link Leaders. They were selected by teachers who felt that they had the motivation and spirit to be role models. Link Leaders were assigned eight to ten freshmen. They called their freshmen at home and invited them to attend freshman orienation day, a day of cheering and playing games, during which they also had a chance to tour the school and ask questions about River City.

Ms. Johnson said, "We had a great turnout for this year's orientation. 240 freshmen attended compared to the 80 that attended the year before."

Some of the topics that Link Crew stresses are school involvement, positive study habits, working well with others, getting help (from different sources), solving problems and the importance of taking advantage of a second chance. Link Leaders get the message through to freshmen with activities that are fun as well as informative. After every activity Link Leaders are encouraged to reinforce the lesson by sharing personal experience. Freshmen generally enjoy their sessions with the Link Leaders, especially because they get to take time off from their world history classes. Many of the freshmen share President Angela Prasad's reaction. She says, "It shows that upper classmen really care."

During the school year Link Leaders are encouraged to call their students at home and ask how they are doing. Freshmen are encouraged to contact their Link Leader through a system called Link Net. Teachers are also able to get help from Link Leaders if they have any problems with their ninth graders by filling out forms called Link Alerts.

Link Net and Link Alert forms are located in all world history classes and they can be turned in at the office. All Link notices are confidential. Direct questions on these forms to Rhapsody Flores or Jennifer Scruggs, co-commissioners of Link Crew.

Top Yolo Hispanic students named

By Rebekah Shubin
Staff Writer

Seniors Mirthala L. Santizo and Andradi Villalobos, two of River City's own, were recent recipients of the Mexican American Concilio award for being the top Hispanic academic students in Yolo County.

The presentation was held at the Woodland Fairgrounds, where they had dinner and received their plaques from Rick Gonzales, president of the Mexican-American Concilio. Representative Vic Fazio also attended and gave a speech.

Mirthala said, "I never expected it." She said she was really surprised when Spanish teacher Mr. Gallego stopped here in the hall to tell her of the award. "I really like that Hispanics are honored for what they accomplish," she added.

Andradi declined to be interviewed for this story.

Freshman basketball revived at River City

By Khaled Dastagirzada
Staff Writer

River City has brought back the freshman basketball program to give the ninth grade students a chance to play. The freshman students can't all make the junior varsity team, but this program allows them all to play for one season.

At times the freshman team has to practice with the jv team. There are five basket ball teams and only one gym, so at times the freshmen had to practice pretty late. "Once we had to practice outside on the blacktop," said Coach Brooks, who coaches the freshman team solo.

"I became the coach because I enjoy basketball," said Coach Brooks. He previously coached two years for Highland High School.

Coach Brooks said it is too early for any player standouts, adding, "We focus on the team."

The freshman team lost to Christian Brothers on Monday December 4th with a score of 75-67. "We played a decent first half, got killed in the third quarter and played an excellent fourth quarter," said Coach Brooks. That was the Christian Brothers' sixth game, and only the first game for River City.

Coach Brooks thinks the freshmen will have a pretty good year. "We have lots of quickness but we lack height," he observed.

When asked what he sees in the future for this program, Coach Brooks said,"I hope that it continues. Lots of freshmen won't make the jv team, but with this program, everyone can play."

"I hope the people can come out and support us. These are the future varsity players," said Coach Brooks. Their next home game is on January 11, 6 p.m.

Deja vu? Not quite. RC celebrates second homecoming for basketball

By Tony Venditti
Commissioner of Publicity
and Marie Vasi
Sophomore Class Secretary/Treasurer

River City will have its first ever Basketball Homecoming. It will be held the week of January 22.

Royalty will be different this time. Freshmen, sophomores, and juniors will each nominate their own class royalty. The winners will be whoever receives the most nominations. Senior royalty, as usual, will be the top five vote-getters. They will be presented alongside their respective floats and the winners announced: guys at the jv game, girls at the varsity.

Each class is allowed to spend a $35 maximum of their individual funds to make their floats. The floats have to be made up of at least 20% recycled materials and successfully incorporate the theme: cereals. Yes, cereals! The freshmen have reserved Cheerios and Rice Crispies, the sophomores Kix and Frosted Flakes, the juniors Fruity Pebbles, and the seniors Lucky Charms. The floats be built on or in grocery carts lent to us from Safeway. They will be judged during the rally on January 26 and the winners will be announced that night at the varsity basketball game.

R.C. homecomings wouldn't be right without lunchtime activities. Hacky sacks are more popular than ever his year, and activities this time include a two-day hacky sack competition. Since the idea for a mini-homecoming was fairly recent, we weren't able to give a dance, but next year there will be one.

Other than the new homecoming, River City is holding a canned (or non-perishable) food drive through December 21. Any donations are very welcome and can be delivered to R.C. any time before then.

Cheerleaders show spirit at Arco Arena

By Carolina Avina
Staff Writer

River City cheerleaders got to perform in front of 15,000 people at the Sacramento Kings basketball game on December 10th. Thirteen cheerleaders spent the whole day at Arco along with 6,000 other cheerleaders from all over California.

Before the game, they had the opportunity to watch the players warm up, and some even got to meet them.

During half-time, five different dance routines were performed, two of which RC cheerleaders were in. Dancing to songs such as "Poison Ivy" and "Put Your Back Into It," RC cheerleaders really hyped up the crowd. "The crowd really liked us," said cheerleader Jennifer McFadden.

River City should be proud of its cheerleaders. Wearing their blue and gold uniforms, they showed over 15,000 people how much spirit RC has.

And the Kings won the game.

RC welcomes two exchange students

Christian Tillmanns is a long way from home and girlfriend

By Jessica Honsinger
Staff Writer

River City is graced with two exchange students this year! Last month, we talked with Tanya Cukon from Croatia. This month, Germany's Christian Tillmanns is in the spotlight.

Christian Tillmanns came to West Sacramento from Krefeld, Germany. A seventeen-year-old senior, Christian is experiencing America's final year of school before college, but will have two more years of high school when he returns to Germany. According to Christian, the schools in Germany are very different than the schools here. In Germany, students have 13 different classes every week, compared to the maximum of seven at River City. The classes are 45 minutes in length, with breaks between every two periods. Christian says that classes are harder in Germany than in America. Also, Christian says that students in Germany can't choose their own classes. The administration chooses for them to meet Germany's standards which are required by law. After high school, Christian plans to go to a German university to study marketing.

Christian sees many similarities and differences between the U.S. and Germany. Actually, there are more differences than similarities. "Everything in America is quite different!" states Christian. "Everything is bigger." Unfortunately, this includes people. One of the bigger differences is the driving age limit. In Germany, people have to wait until they are eighteen to drive, instead of driving at sixteen like here.

While in America, Christian is staying active. He is a silver-level Renaissance member, and this spring, he'll make his American dramatic debut as Axel in River City's production of The Nerd.

Christian is having fun with his American experience, except for one thing: he is separated by over 5,000 miles from his girlfriend. According to Christian, "(It's) the only bad thing about the trip."

a change of address -- Form 882 -- when they move. Also, people could utilize electronic filing or Telefile, and request a direct deposit of the refund to their bank. Direct deposit eliminates the possibility of lost, stolen or undeliverable refund checks. This year, for the first time, taxpayers who file paper tax returns will have the option of direct deposit by filing Form 8888 with their tax return. Look for the form in your tax package.

If you are among the following people due a refund, you should contact the IRS tax assistance number at (800) 829-1040. Ask for the "undeliverable refund gate."

Because the telephone assistance lines are very busy and difficult to get through to this time of year, you are strongly encouraged to write for your refund instead. Be sure to include your name, Social Security Number, current address where check will get to you, and your signature. If you sent a married, filing joint tax return, both you and your spouse should sign the letter. Your letter should be sent to the same IRS service center you sent your tax return. For those in Northern California, direct your letter to Internal Revenue Service, P.O. Box 9941, MS 6733, Ogden, UT, 84409

The following people are West Sacramento residents who should contact the IRS for their refund check:

Garardo Caballero; James and Pamela Dean; Beverly Escalante; King Pan and Karen Kwong Kong Fong; Jose and Maria Del Rosario Lopez; Robert Marshall; Mary Anne McDowell; Susan McMaster; Wayde Muraki; Clyde Perkins; Arthur Russell; Mevy Tong Saetem; Salindar and Parvider Singh; and Joseph Sutton.

Holiday tips from police

From the West Sacramento Police Department

"Tis the Season to be Jolly," and burglars, muggers and pickpockets are jolly this time of year. This holiday season, don't let the spirit of giving lull you into giving crooks a better chance to do their dirty work. Crooks love the holidays as much as everyone else, but mainly because it's an opportune time for crime. Here are some tips on how to celebrate safely this holiday season:

Take a Holiday Inventory

The holidays are a good time to update or create your home inventory.

Take photos or make videos of items and list descriptions and serial numbers. Keep the lists and videos or photos in a safe, fireproof place.

Make sure large items are engraved with your Driver's License number and the state in which you hold your license, i.e., CA77777777. A Social Security number cannot be traced.

Call the Crime Prevention Unit at the West Sacramento Police Department to get inventory forms, small stickers to put on the larger engraved items and an Operation ID sticker to place in your front window to make crooks aware you have identified all your property.

Beware of Opening Your Door to Strangers

Criminals sometimes pose as couriers delivering gifts. It is not uncommon for people to try to take advantage of others' generosity during the holidays going door to door for charitable donations when there is no charity involved.

Yolo Habitat plan completed

The Steering Committee for the Yolo County Habitat Conservation Plan will conduct a public meeting to release the draft Yolo County Habitat Conservation Plan on Thursday, January 11, 1996, between 7:30 and 9 p.m. in the atrium of the Yolo County Administration Building (Edwin Meier Building), 625 Court Street in Woodland. A public presentation on the draft habitat conservation plan or HCP will occur before the release of the document. The public is invited to attend the meeting. The HCP is being released for a 60-day comment period to conclude on March 11, 1996. Copies of the draft plan may be reviewed at the Community Development Departments for the Cities of Davis, Winters, West Sacramento, Woodland, the City of Davis Parks and Community Services Department, the Yolo County Community Development Agency, the County Libraries in Davis, Winters and West Sacramento, the Woodland City Library, and the Shields Library at U.C. Davis. Copies of the plan can be purchased. For additional information you can contact Mark Hamblin of the Yolo County Community Development Agency at 666-8035.

The Yolo County Habitat Conservation Plan attempts to reduce the impacts on 29 species and their habitats from future urban development allowable under the General Plans of the Cities of Woodland, Winters, West Sacramento, Davis and the County of Yolo. Projected "build out" of urban and agricultural development by the general plans would result in the loss of habitat, or "take," of approximately 14,300 acres over the next 20+ years.

The total study for the HCP encompasses approximately 465,900 acres which includes that portion of Yolo County occupying the Sacrament Valley, including the Delta, and up to the 100 meter elevation (300 foot contour) in the coast range to the west.
